

Julian Blackmore is a British composer and musician based in New York City, where he writes, produces, and performs music for film, media, and theatre.

His music has been performed at the Lincoln Center (NYC), Goodspeed Opera House (CT), St George's Hall (Bradford, UK), and used in film, tv, and media around the globe, including the US, India, South Africa, Australia and Asia.

Before relocating to New York Julian toured internationally with top UK tribute band 'Abba Forever', and 70s crooners 'Smokie'. He played keyboards, sang, and hosted for the world famous Cafe Wha? Band in Greenwich Village, NYC, for seven years, before the pandemic struck in 2020 and forced him to put his skinny jeans into storage.
